SRW denominator matches number of MVT records

A few exceptions include:

- CLABSI measures
- Measures whose denominator is based on # of discharges instead of unique # of people
- Patients listed on the MVT who are ultimately excluded, and thus have the “Eligible for denominator but excluded” column checked off. The SRW denominator should match the MVT records that do not have this column checked off.

- Review webinar content from March and April 2019 for additional info.

Standard Reporting Question

A hospital asked:

Should we include worker's comp encounters in our chart-based measure results?

Answer:

Patients who are attributed to Medicaid, who have a denominator eligible diagnosis/event while on Medicaid in addition to a worker's comp visit, should be included in the denominator.

If an attributed patient has no denominator eligible diagnosis/event while on Medicaid other than a worker's comp visit, this patient should not be included in the denominator.

Once you've determined that the patient should be in your denominator, claims related to workers comp encounters should be used to count for numerator eligibility.
